Camp Philosophy

The Tim Bart Basketball Camp Staff and players believe in a camp that places a high emphasis on fundamental skill work, and less emphasis on playing games. We believe that the best way to prepare players for games is to teach them how to practice correctly on individual skills when they are on their own.

We strive to build complete basketball players who will one day be able to play competitively for their school teams. We believe that players can only succeed through hard work and many hours of practice. And it is our goal to provide the proper skill instruction, in a positive atmosphere, where future basketball players can learn to achieve their goals.

“Summers are when players are made. I hope you sign up for a week of fun and learn the same skills that the current Bruin players use in every varsity game. Sign up early to avoid being shut out space is limited.”

Camp Overview

The Bruin Camp format consists of daily sessions of specialized skill clinics where a “master teacher” will demonstrate and lead skills in mass, then break the groups to baskets for more individualized practice with their team “coach.” Clinics will cover many different offensive and defensive fundamentals.

Fundamentals Emphasized:

Offensive:

Triple Threat Stance

Shooting Progression

Free Throws

Dribbling and Dribble Moves

Passing and Receiving

Defensive:

Proper Stance

Defensive Footwork

On the Ball Defense

Off the Ball Defense

Defensive Attitude
